

About HPC

Since 1976, HPC has established its reputation as leading consultancy for tailor-made solutions in supply chain logistics, especially ports, with a specific determination towards modern container terminals worldwide. HPC is an independent company within Hamburger Hafen und Logistik AG (HHLA) group.

HPC's business location at the crossroads of HHLA's Container Terminals in the Port of Hamburg underlines our close connection with the operative demands of modern container terminals. We offer you expert knowledge and a universal project approach in the fields of

- Business Development and Strategy,
- Technical Assistance and Management,
- Terminal Development and Design,
- Engineering,

- Software and IT Solutions and
- Project Management.

With HPC Ukraina, HPC was engaged into a direct shareholdership of a mid-sized container terminal (Odessa), which is now established in the portfolio of HHLA. This growing operation was originally designed and supplied with an IT solution, and operations were managed by HPC. In addition, HPC has two subsidiaries (HPTI und UNICONSULT) to address further business fields.

HPC is member of a number of organisations of the trade and maintains a global contact network. Our vast project experience is documented by an extensive reference list, which can be downloaded on the right.
